I'm an aspiring artist who is just trying to get a name for myself. I don't care about who is the king of this or that. My job in the game is just to entertain my fans. That is more important to me. I started listening to music ever since I was little, so basically I didn't just decide I wanted to rap. I started to write poetry in the 5th grade. After that I liked the poems that I wrote so I started to sharpen my skills. Eventually when I went to 6th grade, I just started writing lyrics. That was the start for me. After I started writing, I kind of made it a hobby. Then I wanted to make it a career so I got serious about what I want to do in my future. Now I'm 17 years old. I have my own home studio so I record my own music instead of waiting for other people to help me out. I decided to do my own thing to make it in the game. I learned you can't depend on others. It's up to you to make moves for yourself. After I graduate from high school I'm going to college to be an audio engineer, so while I'm a music artist, I'm also going to be a music engineer so I can get different aspects of the entertainment. The next level is CEO and the head of the record label. SHOUT OUT TO YUNG SLUGGA HE THE PARTNER OF SFTD ENT
