The Death of All Morality is an indie/industrial rock band based out of Waukegan, IL. The band formed in 2008, when lead singer/songwriter/multi-instrumentalist Chris Johnson became inspired to write songs. "To me, my songs are a reflection of myself or places I used to be in. I was lost for a while. Sometimes I still feel like I am. But to me, these songs are just an intellectual way of expressing the views into world, or of myself", leader Chris Johnson said of the band's music. In late 2008, Chris began using more musicians to help record his material. This new band is definately not going away, and is a very exciting one to check out.
